DIGEST

Filing date

draws near

Three petitions have been pulled for two seats that will be vacated on the Romulus School Board in the June election. However, no petitions have yet been filed, according to school officials.

Pat Patterson, the incumbent president, Gregory Wilson and Linda Tomchick are all vying for the chance at serving a four-year term on the school board.

The deadline for filing petitions for the Monday, June 13 election is 4 p.m. April 11 in the city clerk's office.

May 16 is the last day voters will be able to register for the school board election.

Tax changes

on increase

The Romulus Board of Reviews heard 508 cases for lower property assessments this year. Of those, 373 were from residents, 72 from commercial businesses, 54 industrial firms, eight developmental and one personal case.

All the cases have been reviewed individually, and official notification of the board decision will be made by mail within the week, according to Matt Raftery, director of the department of assessment.

Out of the 373 residential appeals, 155 were changed. Of those, 11 commercial, and nine industrial appeals were changed. None of the developmental or personal appeals were changed. Raftery pointed out, however, that assessment changes are not always favorable to the property owner. The incorrect assessments will be corrected whether they favor the property owner or not.

The number of appeals increased from 271 last year to 508 this year because there was an overall adjustment in property assessments this year.

Sheraton is robbery site

The Sheraton Inn, in Romulus, was the site of an armed robbery at 5:06 a.m. Friday, police officials report.

A desk clerk was approached by a suspect described as being a black male, 30 years old, 5 feet, 6 inches in height, with a mustache and short hair, wearing a dark coat and brown pants. The suspect told the victim he needed gas money and said if she gave him the money in the register, she would not be hurt.

The suspect had his hand inside his coat, implying a weapon was concealed. However, no weapon was ever seen.

The man fled on foot with an undisclosed amount of cash.

Also on Friday, a disturbance at the construction site of the Radisson Hotel was reported.

Two picketers were arrested and charged with obstructing a police officer in the discharge of his duties as they were blocking the road and access to the building site, along with about 200 picketers.

The two men posted bond of $50 and will appear in court on April 19 to be arraigned.

School clinics

will be topic

School-based clinics will be the topic of discussion at a meeting between the People's Community Hospital and the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee.

The meeting is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. April 14, and all taxpayers and parents are encouraged to attend and voice their opinions.

The meeting will be staged at 36540 Grant Road, in the board of education office of the Romulus Administration Building.

School chief

is evaluated

Dr. William Bedell, Superintendent of Romulus schools, will be evaluated by the school board April 26.

At Dr. Bedell's request, the evaluation will be closed, but the results will be released in the form of a newsletter soon after the evaluation.

Band: Secondary music program is tops

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Since Dick Kruse became the head of the Romulus schools music department in 1974, Romulus bands have won more than 40 first division ratings at Michigan district, state and regional band festivals.

That's quite a record and one of which Kruse is very proud, but he's even more proud of the students, the parents and the support he has received from the school system.

The band program in the Romulus schools start in fourth grade and continues through 12th grade. The program consists of more than 600 students, with 360 at the high school and junior high levels.

Kruse mentioned that the bands have been heavily supported by the community.

"The teachers in the school are very cooperative. Everybody seems interested," said Kruse, who has taught band for 22 years.

Kruse said the high school has three bands, directed under Henry James, including the concert band and the symphonic band, both with about 80 students each, and the jazz band, with about 20 students. He added the junior high program, which he directs himself, has three bands including the symphonic band and concert band, with about 70 students in each, and the beginning band, with about 40 students involved. Other bands are involved through the Romulus elementary schools.

And what Kruse said he was the most proud of was the quality and perfection the young musicians displayed during the Michigan band festivals.

"I am very proud of what we have accomplished. There are a lot of good kids in the bands. You can't have a good band program if you don't have the things working right."

Kruse said the junior high symphony band has won 17 straight festivals between the district and state competitions. He also mentioned that last year, the same band played in Washington D.C., along with two Michigan high schools, for "Michigan Day."

Kruse had a taste of performing success during his instrumental playing years when he was a featured soloist with the University of Michigan band in 1961. That band traveled to the Soviet Union to play a concert and to Carnegie Hall, N.Y.

Kruse said he was very proud of the fact that his junior high band program is tied for second place in the competition for the best Michigan band program at the junior high level. The competition featured 624 state bands.

At recent district band festivals for the high school and junior high, Kruse said the two bands scored "very well." He said the junior high symphonic band received all first division ratings and the concert band scored all second division ratings. At the high school level, which Kruse complimented James on his efforts with the program, the concert band received two first division ratings and two second division ratings and the symphonic band received all first division ratings.

"I'm really proud of what he's (James) doing over there. He's just done a fantastic job."

But, Kruse said, he does not want to take all of the credit for having such a successful band program. Kruse said he believes the community and the school have been great assets to the program, as well as the students.

"People don't realize that in order to have a good band program, you have to have a good school system. You have to have good cooperation with the entire school board, kids and parents. That is the key to a successful band program."

Ruling allows local bond sales

A March 22 ruling by the Michigan Supreme Court which makes Tax Increment Financing Authorities valid should speed public improvement financing for the $1 billion, 1,000-acre Metro/World Centre project, in Romulus, according to Dennis Oakes, Romulus economic development director.

Oakes said this week that the court decision will impact Romulus by allowing bonds to be issued in the Wickham Road TIFA district. The bonds are needed to finance about $9 million worth of public improvements in the area - including the widening and resurfacing of Wickham Road, from Merriam to Wick, and future improvements of Smith and Venoy roads. The public improvements - such as roads, sewage and water lines and street lighting - are needed before a commercial developer will show an interest in the area, Oakes said.

TIFA was created in 1975 by the state Legislature to allow cities to target new taxes within a specified area of the city and fund public improvements to spur private development.

Under TIFA, a city can designate an area of the city a "TIFA district." The total State Equalized Value of the region is "frozen" at the time the TIFA district is created and any new tax dollars generated in the region are pledged to repay outstanding debts of the TIFA.

The debts are incurred because of the sale of bonds to fund advance public improvements in the region. Once the bonds are repaid and the life of the TIFA have expired, the "frozen" SEV is adjusted to the market level.

Gov. Blanchard last year asked the Supreme Court to issue an opinion on the constitutionality of "freezing" the land values and the capturing of new tax dollars for use by cities. Representatives of other taxing entities within TIFA districts - school districts, county governments and parks authorities - had complained and filed suits in lower courts, saying the TIFA districts deprived them of new tax dollars they would earn had the region SEV not been "frozen."

In a 5-2 ruling, the Supreme Court ruled that TIFA plans are constitutional. The decision was long awaited by city planners, like Oakes, who could not recommend the issuance of TIFA bonds to fund public improvements while the case was pending.

Currently, three TIFA districts exist in Romulus - in the Wickham Road area, Airport Parking area and industrial park region. Both Airlines Parking and the industrial park have been developed, Oakes said, and the TIFAs are no longer needed. However, because of the lawsuit, TIFA bonds could not be earlier issued to fund public improvements in the Airport Parking area, Oakes said. Instead, city officials negotiated an agreement with the developer to loan the city the needed money. The loan will be repaid using the new tax monies generated because of the now-complete development.

A similar loan arrangement for the $9 million in public improvements to the Wickham Road area was also being considered, before the ruling last week, Oakes said. However, the sale of TIFA bonds will now be the likely financing method.

the city council and employed by the city as a police recruit dispatcher for compensation for three reasons: the two offices are incompatible; the city charter prohibits such employment because of conflicts of interest . . . Michigan law requires a person to either resign from one position or to take a leave of absence, without pay from the position with the police department," Galvin wrote.

The attorney cited several legal precedents and attorney general opinions as showing the conflict of interest.

"Under common law, where incompatible offices are held by the same person, the acceptance of the second office automatically vacates the first office," Galvin wrote. "Common law, the city charter and state statute require an individual holding these two offices simultaneously to resign from one or to take a leave of absence from the position with the police department because he cannot faithfully and impartially perform the duties of both offices."

Flynn, the attorney for whom the opinion was prepared, also issued an interpretation of the issue.

"It is and has been my opinion that the two offices claimed by Mr. Lambert are incompatible and that upon accepting employment by the city as a police cadet, he in effect resigned, de facto, his position as council member," Flynn wrote. "That therefore any action taken by Mr. Lambert as a as a council member may have serious legal impact upon the actions taken by said council on council member may well be declared void, or at least invalid, and his continued acting behalf of people having business with the city and the reliance on such actions."

Since the controversy began, Lambert has been present at only one of seven city council meetings. He attended the March 28 meeting.

Despite the legal opinion, Lambert said he does not feel his resignation from the city council is necessary.

"It was a nice letter, but I don't feel it's right," Lambert said this week.

Council Chairman Mary Ann Banks said that it was a letter waiting to happen, and she thinks Lambert will do the "right thing because the council has waited patiently for him to come to a decision."

Councilman Noah Bergeron agreed with the attorneys' opinion but feels it is too late for anything to be done legally because, by the end of the month, Lambert will either have resigned upon graduation of the police academy or rejoined the council. Legal action by the council would take several months, and, by that time, the whole controversy would be old news, he said.

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry, on the other hand, feels that the letter was legitimate. Raspberry called for an end to the issue and urged Lambert's resignation.

Councilman William Wadsworth said that he understands that Lambert intends to resign from the city council April 28 and feels that the resignation is the right thing to do.

Cable

completed within a few couple weeks and should put an end to the minor cable outages experienced in Romulus due to the maintenance and repair of all cable lines.

"We built a system residents can be proud of," Barden said of the equipment used in the Romulus cable system.

Barden received the Romulus cable television franchise in 1982. A similar system in Van Buren Township was another offshoot to his cable television system in the city of Inkster.

Barden also is a part owner of the Detroit cable television franchise. He will continue to operate his cable systems in Inkster and Detroit.

Halloween?

No, the several skeletons found in the closet at Merriam Elementary School, in Romulus, aren't for Halloween. But they are there for good reasons. Third-grade teacher Ginny Smith and her students have found learning about bones can be fun and creative. Smith's students have been studying bones and the skeletal system for the past month as part of a "hand-on" science project. The project started when the students used Dog Bonz (yes, the dog treats), paper clips and rubber bands to construct models of vertebrae. Smith said the Dog Bonz were used because the soft centers enabled students to push paper clips and rubber bands through them. The resulting figure resembles the bone segments of the human spine, Smith said. The enthusiasm for the hands-on idea increased - and so did the project. The idea to make complete skeletons out of paper plates came from Kelly Adams, daughter of another third-grade teacher, Pat Adams.

was pulling away from a mailbox when a speeding car approached. He pulled the steering wheel to avoid getting hit and caught his arm on a sign outside the car. He missed two weeks of work with a broken arm. He was also carried a couple spare tires because he was the often the victim of flat tires form the roads he drove on.

Warfield was also well-acquainted with the people on his routes. They would wait for him to deliver the mail and chat with him.

Because of this caring attitude, Warfield was remembered by the people along his routes. They would leave him cards, lemonade and home-made cookies. And he hears that people along his old routes still ask about him even though he retired March 1.

On retirement day, Warfield was honored by 60 friends, several co-workers and his wife, daughter Karen, and mother-in-law, Ida Zilka at a banquet at Ted's Restaurant, in Southgate, by the Area Rural Letter Carriers Association. At the banquet, Warfield was presented a certificate, watch and check by his supervisor, Bob Sedor.

Warfield said that he does miss work a little, but now that he is retired, he can relax and do things he was never able to do while he was working. He remains active in the Michigan Rural Letter Carriers Association and also is involved in church work at the Wayne Church of Christ. Warfield's wife also plans to keep Alonzo busy gardening and caring for their lawn.

Some time in the future Warfield, plans to move. But, for now, he is content visiting and being visited by friends he made while delivering mail. And when he misses his route, he can always play the video tape his sub-carrier Arlene Spodeck made of his last day of work and think back fondly of his 35 years as a mailman.

Added millage sought in special education

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County voters are being asked to pay an additional 1 mill in property taxes to help support special education programs.

The Wayne County Intermediate School District board of education will place the request for the tax increase on the Aug. 2 primary ballot. The WCISD acts as an liaison between local school districts and the state Department of Education for educational programs and funding.

County taxpayers are already assessed 1 mill to help support programs and services for handicapped children in Wayne County. In August 1974, the electorate decided to help fund the special education programs mandated and, in part, funded by the state.

WCISD officials explained that, beginning with the 1982-83 school year, the 1 mill fell short of covering all special education program costs, resulting in the initiation of chargebacks to local districts to cover a portion of the costs of resident students attending the programs.

During the 1986-87 school year, officials in the Wayne County Association of School Administrators examined the need to increase funding for special education center programs.

Jerry Montecillo, chairman of the WCASA Special Education Advisory Committee and superintendent of the Taylor school district, said that the WCASA "unanimously supported an increase of 1 mill to support the education of handicapped persons."

WCISD board members adopted a resolution March 9 to place the issue on the primary election ballot.

The ballot proposal will read: "Shall the one (1) mill limitation on the annual property tax previously approved by the electors of the Intermediate School District of the County of Wayne, State of Michigan, for the education of handicapped persons be increased by one mill?"

A mill represents $1 of property tax for each $1,000 of state equalized property value. The SEV is equal to one-half of the fair market value of the property. Thus, the added millage would cost the taxpayer owning a $40,000 house about $20 extra each year.

School officials said there are more than 35,000 identified handicapped students in Wayne County, and more than 29,000 - 83 percent - of them are considered "high incidence students." High-incidence students are educable mentally impaired, emotionally impaired, learning disabled, speech and language impaired or pre-primary impaired.

WCISD officials said that the handicapped are provided programs in each of the 34 Wayne County school districts, in addition to the local and state funds utilized to support the programs.

The school officials believe that if additional revenues are not found, a shortfall for the 1987-88 school year will exceed $9 million.

Apartment boom on rise

Tenants moving in for the developers

By BETH SUNDRLA
ANP Staff Writer

Western Wayne County has experienced an apartment boom in the past two years, but finding occupants doesn't seem to be a problem.

George Wilhelmi, planning director for the city of Westland, said the construction boom began about three years ago in Westland. "I think it's leveling off at this particular point," he said.

But several communities have had growth in apartment construction. According to figures from the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments based on building permits, several communities have new apartment complexes in the past two years.

In 1986 figures show Canton Township had permits issued for eight apartments. In 1987 Canton had permits issued for 88 new apartments.

Sherry Kelly, licensed broker for Honeytree Apartments and Townhouses in Canton Township, said the occupancy of apartments has remained steady.

"But there are an astronomical number of apartment buildings going up," she said.

The Honeytree complex has remained at about 90 percent occupancy, Kelly said. "It could be better had there not been so many constructions in the area," she said.

Kelly said construction in Livonia, Farmington and Westland have created competition for Canton developments.

Van Buren Township had no 1986 multiple family building permits, while in 1987 permits for 178 apartments were listed.

More apartments are planned for Van Buren, according to Helen Foster, Van Buren Township treasurer and member of the township planning commission.

Nearly 700 units are planned in a new development called Oak Landings, Foster said. But occupancy has not been a problem in Van Buren, Foster said.

"The market studies out here have been good," she said. The Oak Landings project is so large, the developer plans to build in phases to see how well it goes over.

But those already built have excellent occupancy rates, Foster said. "There is certainly room for multiple family development in the community," she said.

In Westland in 1986, 56 apartment permits were issued according to SEMCOG statistics. In 1987, 338 permits were issued for multiple family construction, according to SEMCOG data.

Wilhelmi said occupancy has been good for the completed projects. In a survey completed in December 1987, Westland had a 2-percent vacancy rate, Wilhelmi said.

That survey was the first of its kind in Westland, he said.

Wilhelmi said Westland is a good area for apartments as far as population trends go. With the growth in the numbers of senior citizens, singles, and single parent families, apartments have become more popular.

Although there is not necessarily an increase in population, there is an increase in the number of families because families are smaller, Wilhelmi said.

"We're filling a need in Westland," he said. Westland has a lower land cost and quite a market, he said.

One apartment complex in Westland, The Landings, is adding more apartments to meet demand. The complex was started in 1979 and more buildings have been added each year, according to Fred Madsen, manager.

By the time it's completed the complex will have 22 buildings with a total of 1,100 apartments, Madsen said.

But occupancy has not been a problem, he said. Many people are waiting for the new buildings to open, he said.

In other areas of western Wayne county, there has not been an influx of apartments. In Belleville, Inkster, Romulus, Sumpter Township and Wayne no new apartment permits have been issued in 1986 and 1987, according to SEMCOG statistics.

'Delinquent taxes' net a loss of county land

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

County-owned land could gradually be whittled away because the county has not been paying taxes for the property.

Wayne County Commissioners are concerned that county-owned property is being confiscated for failure to pay local property taxes, and they want to know why.

The commissioners approved a resolution asking Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara to inventory all county-owned land, determine which land has been placed on local community tax rolls and find out which land may be sold for delinquent taxes.

According to Jim Graham, a spokesman for the commissioners, a law was passed in the late 1970s which allowed communities to add to their tax rolls land owned by the county.

Graham said Romulus was one of the first communities to take advantage of the law, with county-owned land surrounding the airport.

The commissioners learned that much of this land may now be in default for not paying local taxes and may be sold at the May 3 annual tax sale of lands for delinquent taxes.

Roger Wojtowicz, of the county treasurer's office, said it is difficult to list the properties of concern, but he suspects that most of them are small tracts of land. He said once these smaller properties are inventoried, the commissioners will have a clearer picture of the situation.

The commissioners have charged McNamara with completing an inventory of these properties and determining which county-owned properties have been sold for delinquent taxes since 1983 and which properties are currently slated for sale.

Wojtowicz said he believes the properties involved are located throughout the county.

Regional school meeting set

By BETH SUNDRLA
ANP Staff Writer

An organizational meeting is planned for area in-formula school board members and superintendents at 7:30 p.m. April 30 in Southgate.

Frederic E. Champnella II, president of the Southgate Board of Education, is one of the organizers of the meeting, which is aimed at achieving parity in school funding.

In-formula school districts are those included in state aid programs. Out-of-formula school districts are wealthier and not qualified for state monies.

Of the 34 school districts in Wayne County, 21 are in-formula. Wayne-Westland, Inkster, Romulus, Van Buren, and Plymouth-Canton schools are all in-formula districts.

Even with this program of state aid for less wealthy school districts, there is not parity in education, Champnella said.

The meeting, which will be held in the Madison Room of the Presidential Inn in Southgate, will focus on concerns of funding parity.

The United States was founded on an idea of free schooling for all children, Champnella said. But the disparities between have districts and have not districts are large, he said.

Some districts spend as little as $2,000 per student per year, while others spend $5,000, according to Paul Jones, superintendent of Southgate schools.

Many communities, by virtue of having a large industry, have better educational opportunities for their students, Champnella said.

Legislators are taking a longer look at education in Michigan during this legislative session, Champnella said.

"I don't see assurances that inequities are going to be resolved," he said.

The agenda for the meeting includes developing a mission statement, "Unequal Educational Opportunity - What's Happening Now," current proposals relative to finance reform, in-formula issues and concerns.

The meeting is to be organizational, Champnella said. Whether the group will formally organize will be decided at the meeting.

Sheila Page, secretary of the Huron Board of Education, is also helping to organize the meeting.

Once a mission is decided on, the issues will be taken to legislators. "We don't have much time. We need to get on the bandwagon," Champnella said.

Opinion

You can't always please everyone

You can't always please everyone . . . and one man's misfortune is another man's gain.

Those statements are perfect axioms for the record books. But they are also good lessons to be learned for city officials in Wayne and Romulus this week, officials who are participating — ever so subtly — in a legal battle and border war.

Romulus city officials filed a lawsuit Jan. 7, seeking an injunction to prevent the city of Wayne from buying land in Romulus for conversion of wetlands. Named in the suit were the city of Wayne and Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the state agency which approved the Romulus site for wetlands conversion.

Wayne officials purchased the 72-acre plot of land in Romulus last year, after Ford Motor Co. officials announced a $340 million expansion of the Wayne Assembly Plant. Because part of the expansion project was to be built on wetlands — the bogs, swamps and marshes designated and protected in the state from development — Wayne officials had to find a piece of property nearby to create a manmade wetlands area.

The Romulus site, on Van Born and Hannan roads, was the choice, and the purchase of the property from a private owner was finalized.

But Romulus officials objected to the sale, protesting the fact that once the land became a wetland, it would be taken off of the city tax rolls. Until the wetland conversion, the land was worth about $7,000 in tax revenue to the city and schools, Romulus officials contend. Under state law, however, wetlands have no property value and, therefore, cannot be used in assessing property taxes.

Romulus officials said the city of Wayne should locate the manmade wetland elsewhere or compensate the city of Romulus for the loss in tax revenues.

A Wayne County Circuit court judge, however, disagreed last week.

Circuit Court Judge Harry J. Dingeman dismissed the suit, saying that a city has the right to purchase property outside city limits and use the land — even as a wetland. Romulus officials have said they will appeal the decision.

We believe such an appeal is short-sited and a poor use of taxpayers' money.

This legal battle is clear-cut and simple. Clearly, the city of Wayne has the right to purchase land from a private citizen. And, as the judge's decision last week made clear, the right of the city of Wayne to use the property as a wetland is also within the boundaries of what we call legality.

Furthermore, Romulus officials should be the first to understand the concept of "hurting a few to benefit many." For Wayne, the $7,000 annual loss in tax revenues for Romulus is minimal compared to the scope of the $340 million expansion of the Ford Motor Co. facility. And in Romulus, the misfortune of those who are being persuaded to sell their homes and property to make way for new development near the airport and other areas of the city is no less painful than the former example.

The legal border war between the two cities is, at this point, without a worthy cause and should not continue. Taxpayers should not be forced to fund an ongoing saga.

Councilman must resign

One Romulus city councilman apparently thinks he is above the law. Such a fact is a poor example of public leadership — one that the citizens of this community, this newspaper and the very standards of public office cannot tolerate or accept.

His colleagues should follow suit and take immediate action to resolve the dilemma.

Romulus Councilman Alan Lambert is holding his ground this week in not following a legal opinion given to the city about his status as a city councilman and police officer trainee. Lambert, a three-term councilman who entered the Detroit police academy Jan. 18 in hopes of, later this month, becoming a certified police officer in Romulus, said he will not resign from his seat on the council because he does not believe he is doing anything wrong.

Apparently, Lambert has not yet read a legal opinion given to the him and the city on the issue, has not considered the embarrassment of his actions to the city, the potential for making null and void all actions of the council he has sat on during the police officer training period and his responsibilities and ethical standards of an elected public officials.

The legal opinion, given by attorney Joseph F. Galvin, is quite clear:

"A person may not simultaneously be both a member of the city council and employed by the city as a police recruit dispatcher (police officer in training) for three reasons: the two offices are incompatible; the city charter prohibits such employment because of conflicts of interest; Michigan law requires a person to either resign from one position or take a leave of absence, without pay, from the position with the police department."

And, in an interpretation from city legal counselor Wendell C. Flynn:

"... the two offices claimed by Mr. Lambert are incompatible and that upon accepting employment by the city as a police cadet, he in effect resigned, de facto, his position as council member. That therefore any action taken by Mr. Lambert as a council member may well be declared void, or at least invalid, and his continued acting as a council member may have serious legal impact upon the actions taken by said council on behalf of people having business with the city and the reliance on such actions."

The continued disregard for the law by Lambert is unacceptable and outrageous. It is now the duty of the city administration and other city council members to seek immediate redress and resolution to this problem. By failing to take action, these council members and city administrators will, likewise, be shirking their responsibilities of their elected offices.

Again, we call for the immediate resignation of Mr. Lambert from the city council or the police academy. The seriousness of this issue cannot be taken lightly — nor should it be tolerated by Romulus citizens or officials.

Elected officials must be above reproach, above suspicion and above the high standards of morality before they ever accept a public office. Being above the law is not a part of the job description.

Millage increase would be mixed

To The Editor:

Does the Van Buren School district really believe that anyone in his right mind would vote a millage increase in the face of a property tax assessment increase of 15 percent?

I know that my neighbors are not going to vote for any renewal either.

A $3 million deficit could be made up by going back to basics, as in the 1930's.

Car alarms are nuisances

For the last two nights, one shortly before midnight, the other at 5:15 A.M., I have been awakened by these so called deterrents. I'm sure I'm not the only one alone, since I've seen lights other than mine going on in the neighborhood.

My feelings, since we have a reasonably safe neighborhood, is that the alarms are defective or the people operating them are.

Land give-away not the answer

To The Editor:

The March 9, 1988 edition, of the Inkster Ledger Star, had a couple of disturbing articles.

Councilman Willie Johnson's suggestion to "give away" city owned properties and to "offer vacant property to citizens to move trailers on them" is not a step toward solving the problem of lost tax income.

The thought of trailer home is especially chilling, and how does a drug dealer "take over" a city-owned home?

The campaign oratory has never been fulfilled in my 33 years here, and conversely, city services have deteriorated shamefully. How about some unselfish, intelligent leader instead of ego trips and internal trickeries.

The other item, the Town Square development holdup, has become a boring and almost accepted embarrassment. The project is taking the same road as all the other politicians plans and promises for bringing in new industry and tax dollars.

Racing against time

Prep All-Area swimmers set record pace during '87-88

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

What makes a young athlete get up at 5 a.m., go down to the pool and literally swim hundreds of laps each day?

What makes a young athlete want to get up on the starting block, flex all of his muscles for competition, take the plunge and swim as fast as he can? And most of the times arrive at the finish line in frustration?

Ask these questions to the handful of swimmers named to the 1988 Associated Newspapers' elite All-Area Team and you will receive a wide range of answers: Dedication. The will to win. To prove I can discipline myself to do it. I love swimming and I love to compete.

These were among the kaleidoscope of answers received by the candidates nominated and selected to this year's team, a team that is in a class by itself because of its dedication and outstanding performance throughout the 1987-88 campaign.

"To be an outstanding swimmer - or to be good at anything - you have to first of all be dedicated," said Belleville Coach Bill Snider who was a prep All-American at Dearborn Fordson during the late 1950's. "Without the ingredient (dedication), it's difficult to establish goals and objectives."

Snider's formula apparently is successful for his Tigers. How else can one explain the consistent topnotch swimmers, winners that he has produced over a 16-year span he has coached. His team racked up a 10-2 won-lost record this season and was second only to Monroe in the Wolverine 'A' Conference.

Snider and area coaches recently got together to pick the finest for the All-Area club. And here's what they decided upon:

For the 200-medley relay, coaches drafted Plymouth Salem's foursome of David Miller, Geoff Taylor, Jon Hobgood, and Mike Hill who turned in a season and area's best of 1:40.46. Breathing down Salem's neck was Belleville's lineup of Eric Snider, Bryan Bogardus, Mike Ackron and Martin Duda who were clocked in 1:40.71.

The two schools provided the lineups for the 400-yard freestyle relay teams.

Salem again dominated the event with an excellent showing of 3:16.74 thanks to the efforts of John Irving, Fred Seidelman, Jeff Musson and Ron Oris.

Again the Tigers of Belleville were in a "photo finish" with their colleagues. Snider, Bogardus, Ackron and Duda churned a 3:21.46 to also earn the All-Area designation.

In the individual events, coaches had an excellent time sorting out talent to fill the roster.

"To be an outstanding swimmer - or to be good at anything - you have to first be dedicated."

- Bill Snider
Belleville Coach

finest sprinter in the area. His 22.60 is the best of the year, while joining him on the blocks are neighboring Canton standouts Tom Hone and Justin Labond who have posted 23.10 and 23.20 in the event.

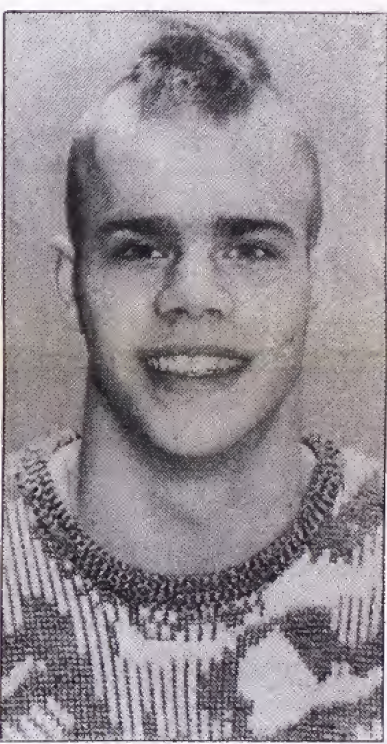

Belleville dominates the diving boards. Of the three divers named, two are from Snider's outstanding crop. Gordie Clearwood and Raul Estrada are the recipients of All-Area recognition, and joining the duo is John Glenn's Mark Miller.

Plymouth-Canton swimmers dominated the butterfly event this year. Bruce Anderson (Canton) had the top grades in the event after covering the distance in 54.59. A close second is Salem's John Hobgood who boasts a 55.67, and Canton's Scott Swartzwelder is next with a 56.45.

The trio of John Irving (Plymouth Salem), Eric Snider (Belleville) and Fred Seidelman (Salem) make up the entries for the 100-yard freestyle event. Irving has the best time (48.58) for the event.

In the 500-yard freestyle, Salem's Jeff Musson was the No.1 choice. His 4:58.72 is the top time in the area. Close by were Wayne Memorial's Jim Davis and Dan Fancher (Belleville) who had the second time (49.28).

Snider's credo:

Time, hard work make a winner

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A high school coach can't afford to stop coaching.

The problem is not finances (in some cases it may be), but if a coach pauses to look over his shoulders, the others will blow right past him.

Ask any coach worth the title and he - or she - will tell you when the season ends, the next begins the following day.

"If you want any kind of success, then you must constantly be aware of what you have - and don't have in the way of talent and people, and not necessarily in that order," said Belleville's Bill Snider (and please that's Snider not Snyder). "I have been pretty fortunate to have a lot of good talent and outstanding assistant coaches around here."

For 16 years - the last four as head coach - Snider has been

"This team had the rare combination of senior leadership and team members who were dedicated to hard work. You will always have winners when you have those ingredients working with you."

fielding swim teams at Belleville. This year's team finished with an admirable 10-2 overall and a 6-1 conference record. The only loss in the league was to state power, Monroe, which captured the Wolverine 'A' Conference championships in February.

Snider says the success to the 1987-88 club is linked with the team's willingness to put in the time and effort.

"This was a hard-working team that was fortunate enough to have solid senior leadership," Snider said. "It's that kind of combination which usually will produce a gratifying year."

Snider knows how it feels to be a winner.

As a prep at Dearborn Fordson, he was a member of Coach Bill Letsche's teams that were among the finest in the state. In fact, Snider was a prep All-American thanks to his efforts on the 200-yard medley relay team.

Hey, coach, do you remember last June when you said: "Wait till next year?" Well, coach, 'next year' is only a few days away. The 1988 high school baseball season will officially get under way on Tuesday with all of the area teams engaged in nonconference games.

He believes that swimming is one of the toughest and yet one of the most rewarding sports a young athlete can get involved in. "There is this constant pressure to better your time - it's you vs. the clock," he noted. "And, obviously there is someone on the next starting block that you have to be aware of. Someone you have to beat to the finish."

Sports is a family affair with the Sniders.

Snider's son, Eric, is a topnotch swimmer. Eric, a junior, has been selected by area coaches to the Associated Newspaper's All-Area team.

Snider's two other children, Kimiko and Reiko, were and are very much involved in sports. Kimiko competed in gymnastics, cross country and track, while Reiko was a member of the Belleville High softball team that captured the 1984 state championship.

A member of the high school's social studies department, Snider says feels that athletics and academics can go hand-in-hand in developing an all-around person.

Rodeo planned

Highlight of the Sumpter Country Fest will be the appearance of a rodeo.

The event is slated on July 29, 30 and 31 on the grounds of the Sumpter Community Center, across Sumpter Road from the township hall.

Last call for area softball teams

The Inkster Parks and Recreation Department will conduct an organizational meeting 6 p.m. Tuesday, April 12 for managers who are planning to field teams in the adult women's softball league.

The meeting will be conducted at the Inkster Recreation Complex, 2025 Middlebelt Road, (just north of Michigan Ave.). The league will begin competition on June 8.

A $175 registration fee must be paid before the entry deadline set for May 27. Further information about the league may be obtained by telephoning Ruth E. Williams, athletic supervisor (728-7530) between 1 and 8 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Recreation officials said today that baseball registration will be accepted 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., May 2 through June 20 at the recreation complex for the city's instructional leagues.

Players between the ages of six and 12 are welcomed to sign up. There is a $6 registration fee. The players will be divided into age groups: 6-8 (Pee Wee) and 9-12 (Midget), and parents must sign an injury waiver that would hold the city harmless in case of injury to their child.

A May 13 deadline has been set for managers who are planning to enter a team in the city adult men's Class C softball league. A 10-game season is on the drawing boards.

Williams said that managers should plan to meet 7 p.m.,

April 14 at the recreation complex to discuss the league and ask questions. League action will begin May 20.

Adult men's softball league managers are invited to a 7 p.m. April 11 meeting at the recreation complex to discuss the 1988 season. Recreation officials are urging managers who have not paid the $385 entry fee to do so before the April 30 deadline.

The 12-game season will begin May 9.

Plymouth-Canton swimmers dominated the butterfly event this year. Bruce Anderson (Canton) had the top grades in the event after covering the distance in 54.59. A close second is Salem's John Hobgood who boasts a 55.67, and Canton's Scott Swartwelter is next with a 56.45.

The trio of John Irving (Plymouth Salem), Eric Snider (Belleville) and Fred Seidelan (Salem) make up the entries for the 100-yard freestyle event. Irving has the best time (48.58) for the event.

In the 500-yard freestyle, Salem's Jeff Musson was the No. 1 choice. His 4:58.72 is the top time in the area. Close by were Wayne Memorial's Jim Davis and Dan Fancher (Belleville) who had the second and third best times of the season.

Salem's has the top backstroke in the area in Davis Miller who has posted a 57.70 for the event. Belleville's Bryan Bogardus is next (59.08) while Canton's Sean Fitzgerald coasts in third with a 59.40.

Belleville's Mike Ackron is leader of the pack in the 100-yard breaststroke. His 1:00.79 earned statewide recognition for him and his school. Canton's Jeff Holman was next in line with a 1:01.18 while Salem's Geoff Taylor was third with a 1:03.68.

Here's a brief summary of what Belleville swimmers accomplished during the 1987-88 campaign:

Snider, a junior, is closing in on the school record in the 100-yard freestyle event presently held by Greg Lynch. Lynch set the mark at 48.70. He's presently with Eastern Michigan University. Snider has shown a 49.28 for his efforts. Snider also was a key player in the Tigers' state-qualifying medley relay team which finish 13th at the state championships.

Rounding out the lineup were Brian Bogardus, Mike Ackron and Martin Duda who combined for a 1:40.71. With Trevor Yeary substituting for Bogardus, the Belleville medley relay team captured the gold medal at the Wolverine 'A' Conference championships.

Fancher, also a good-looking junior, owns a 5:09.26 for the 500-yard freestyle and is a cinch to break the five minute barrier as a senior. In the 500 he won the bronze medal at the league, but did not qualify for the state finals. His coach believes that that will be corrected next year when Fancher is a senior.

Ackron comes from a long line of outstanding swimmers. This is not his first appearance on All-Area swimmer. For the past two years Ackron has earned the unique honor. His accomplishments this year include a 1:00.7 for the 100-yard breaststroke which happens to be the fifth best time in the state for the event.

Versatile and "able to swim in just about any event", according to Coach Snider, Ackron has had a slew of college offers, however, he remains undecided on which he will select to further his education and athletic career.

Bogardus is a sophomore and if you're not carefully taking note, then please do - Bogardus, Trevor Yeary, Eric Snider - these are underclassmen who obviously could form the nucleus of another sterling Belleville swim club a year from now.

Bryan has shattered the one-minute barrier for the 100-yard backstroke, covering the distance as a soph in 59.08.

Belleville South honors unbeaten wrestling club

Belleville South Middle School athletes reaped the awards of a productive season. They were recognized by faculty and administration for their outstanding efforts during the 1987-88 campaign at an Awards Banquet organized in their honor last month.

School officials stressed that athletes participating in a sport had to maintain good grades and good citizenship to remain eligible for athletic competition.

South's basketball team this year was coached by Kirk Spangler. His managers were JoAnna Clark and Pam Logan.

The boys' basketball team had a regular season record of seven victories while losing five. Eighth grade boys on the team who were awards' recipients included: Damont Beltinger, Lee Bradford, Anthony Brannon, Mike Campbell, Larry Coleman, Demeco Cummings, Johnny Dillard, Bryant Hargrow, Scott Koch, Matt Magbray, Robert Mullins,

School officials stressed that athletes participating in a sport had to maintain good grades and good citizenship.

Grant Slauterbeck, and David Yates.

Seventh grade boys on the team who represent the building block for next year's squad include: Patrick Daughtery, Edward Jewell, Troy Lechner, Anthony Maciejewski, Loren Reeves, Steve Strauss, Lloyd Taipulaus, Charles Thrower and John Turner.

Two players shared the Most Valuable Player Award: Lee Bradford and Demeco Cummings earned the honors. The Most Improved trophy went to Mike Campbell; Bryant Hargrow received the Hustler Award.

South's swim team finished the season with an impressive 7-3 record under the guidance of coach Ben Griffin.

Griffin's managerial corps include Chris Gable and Chris Witt. The trio are former members of the South team. Also assisting was Sabrina Arquette, team manager.

Chris Bird, Kristin Curtis, Philip Bongiorno and Jennifer Snure qualified for the state finals. Snure and Bongiorno finished among the top 10 in the butterfly and 50-yard freestyle events, respectively.

South also boasts an undefeated wrestling team. Coach Stewart Israel's grapplers posted a 12-0 record and it is the first time in recent memory that a South wrestling club has managed to wind up with an untarnished record.

The undefeated team included: Nick Atamanick, Doug Balogh, Brian Beatty, Joe Bedford, Paul Berezney, Anthony Browning, Jason Charlesworth, Charles Coleman, Steve Davis, Ryan Dawson, Todd DeJonge, T. J. Dennis, Michael Domen, Joshua Druker, Michael Elrod, Scott Fitzgerald, Scott Ganger, Frederico Garcia, Todd Hendrix and Mark Howling.

Other members of the team included Brian Keeton, Charlie Kinzel, Michael Komaromi, Aaron Lauth, Sean McClure, Ernest McMillan, Chad Meyer, Jason Morin, Todd Oliver, Brent Paeth, Joel Rieman, Michael Rochon, Jared Rowe, Martin Sacco, Jeremy Sawyer and Troy Sweat.

VanDeCar, Amy Wagner and Chandra Warren.

Settle's efforts during the 1988 campaign earned for her the "Most Valuable Player Award." Shannon Kovack was given the Most Improved Award.

Bonnie Stamm fielded the South volleyball team that brought the curtains down on a 6-4 record. Coach Stamm was pleased with the squad because it showed continued improvements since the sport was introduced on the middle school level.

The volleyball team lineup consisted of: Angie Akers, Christine Binert, Cordelia Blake, Debra Dick, Heather Dickerson, Melissa Disney, Keona Gibson, Brandy Jividen, Shannon Kovack, Jennifer Merritt, Anna Preis, Julie South's cheerleaders also were exceptional this year. The talent consisted of Cordelia Blake, Kristen Danlovich, Daney Ellis, Tracie Harris, Amy Marshall, Aubrey Ruth, Jennifer Shaffer, Jessica Sliwa, Melanie Thom, and Laura Turner. Stamm served as coach.

PSORIASIS—CAUSES AND TREATMENTS

By Michael T. Goldfarb, M.D.

In last week's article I discussed the symptoms of psoriasis — red patches, dry scales, and itching usually on the elbows, knees, and scalp. The cause is unknown, but heredity seems to play a role. Men and women are equally affected with the onset of the disease most common between the ages of 15 and 35. It is not contagious.

EASY DIAGNOSIS

The skin lesions of psoriasis are so characteristic that the physician can usually make the diagnosis on observation alone. Occasionally, a confusing case requires a biopsy of the involved skin to make the diagnosis. No blood test is required with the diagnosis of psoriasis.

TREATMENT

Currently, there is no cure for psoriasis, but there are treatments that can help control the disease and even temporarily clear it.

The simplest forms of treatment involves just lubricating the skin with a bland emollient and using a tar shampoo for the scalp. Natural sunlight is also helpful in clearing psoriasis.

There are topical prescription medications available for mild to moderate psoriasis that may help greatly. Topical corticosteroid creams can rapidly clear a patch of psoriasis, but it can recur once therapy is stopped. They must be used with caution because prolonged use leads to thinning of the skin.

Tar and a medication called anthralin are two other agents used topically to clear psoriasis. However, they have the disadvantage of staining clothes and may cause skin irritation.

When psoriasis is extensive on the body, artificial light treatments at the doctor's office, and even medication by mouth may be necessary. PUVA, which is psoralen by mouth, and ultraviolet light A, are effective for severe psoriasis.

Methotrexate and Etretinate are two oral medications that can also help in difficult cases. These treatments all have side effects and require close medical supervision.

2. In Memoriam

LINDY A. BRANDON
You were my first baby although there was six. You were the first we grew together, we laughed, we loved, we cried. We were together for 37 years when God called for you to come to Him. He took the pain from your chest but he put a loss in mine. I saw what you were going through so god helped me not to be so lonely Lynn. You will always be my first baby and I'll always miss my first baby. In loving memory your wife Lottie.

LIVING IN THE SHADOWS HUSBANDS of their

First in a two-part series.

They live in the shadows of their husbands. Behind the political fanfare, the speeches, the ceremonial hype and the heat of elections.

They are the women behind our area political leaders—the women whose support and never-ending dedication make a life of politics all the more possible.

But just who are these women? What is their role in politics? Is it a role they enjoy or despise? And would they do it all again?

Glad you asked . . .

Christine Silvenis

When Glenn Silvenis was elected mayor of Belleville, his wife couldn't resist the temptation to say, "I told you so."

Christine Silvenis recalled that "when I first met Glenn, he seemed to know everyone in town. Everywhere we went, he would get into conversations with people, and I told him that someday he would be the mayor of this town. Last November my prediction came true."

Chris was actively involved in her husband's campaign "hand addressing letters for four city-wide mailings, stuffing and stamping envelopes and working at the polls."

The First Lady of Belleville sees herself as a partner to the mayor and is looking for direction on finding a special project to enhance the image of the city—something similar to the beautification program adopted by Lady Byrd Johnson.

"I would like to interest the wives of the councilmen and other Belleville residents in helping with the Streetscape—just working to make the city look nice by planting flowers or doing other beautification projects," she said. "I also want to do some of the 'little niceties' that make a community more friendly such as sending cards to new parents or a sympathy card to the family of a Belleville resident who dies."

Chris Silvenis grew up in Allen Park and moved to Belleville almost 11 years ago. She met her future husband when they were next-door neighbors at Lake Villa Apartments, and six years ago they were married.

A parochial school teacher for 10 years, Chris taught at St. Stephen in New Boston, St. Gabriel in Detroit and St. Pascal and St. Cyril, both in Taylor. After her two young sons are in school, Chris would like to return to teaching.

The Silvenis' have sons, Aaron, who will be 3 in June and Adam, whose was born on Feb. 20—just three months after his father became mayor. Silvenis also has a son, Eric, 16.

Chris, like her husband, is a Belleville Booster.

"I really love Belleville. It is small enough so that you can know people, and it is a good, safe community to raise children," Chris said. "I would like to see more shops downtown, particularly women's shops. Because women are the shoppers in most households it's important to have gift shops and specialty shops to bring women downtown."

Glenn and Chris Silvenis agree that one of the most difficult aspects of the life of the mayor and his family is budgeting time. However, they said, Eric is "involved in teen activities and Aaron is pretty used to his father working late," so the busy schedule of the mayor has been accepted by the family.

"There are weeks when Glenn has commitments all five nights of the week," Chris said. "It is important for the family to be strong and to learn to accept live," she said. As Poole's military career took him to different assignments, the Poole family learned to live in locations all over the world.

The family's three daughters, LeRhea, Gena and Lynnette, were each born in different states.

"He is very devoted to his family. His family comes first," Mrs. Poole said.

Poole proved that recently when his wife underwent a mastectomy. He missed two township meetings during that time.

"Jim was a basket case. It all happened so fast," Mrs. Poole said. After a biopsy determined there was cancer she had surgery by the beginning of March.

"It was hard for Jim to deal with because he felt so bad for me," she said. "My family has all been very supportive and really good about it," she said.

Mrs. Poole said she is just thankful the cancer was detected before it spread.

Mrs. Poole said she had seen television reports about Nancy Reagan's bout with breast cancer. "I told my mother if the first lady can deal with this I guess the first lady of Canton can do it," she said.

The Pooles have been married for 33 years. When telling the story of how they first met, Mrs. Poole says with a laugh, "You won't believe this."

The couple met when Jim Poole was in the Air Force. He was visiting a friend in Kentucky, in the town where Greta lived. He visited a church where Greta was singing in the choir.

"He saw me and said he wanted to meet me and that he wanted to marry me," Mrs. Poole said.

Two months later he had given her an engagement ring and four months after that they were married.

The family lived in Maine, California, Montana, Alabama, Mississippi and Guam during Poole's military career.

Poole first sought public office when he was elected township trustee in 1972. He was defeated in his first bid for the supervisor's job in 1974 but was elected to the job in 1980. He was re-elected in 1984 and is planning to seek re-election this year, his wife said.

Being the supervisor's wife hasn't changed life much for Mrs. Poole. "We see less of him and the phone rings a lot more," she said.

"I stay out of it," Mrs. Poole said of township politics. "I listen, but I don't attend meetings or anything. He was the one elected, not me," she said.

She said she tries to stay informed on the issues because many people ask her about them.

She also has to be patient when Poole comes the working schedule just like the family of a sports personality or any other individual who has to spend time away from home."

If her husband continues to run for public office, Chris said, "I'll continue to be supportive. He enjoys being involved in community service, and that is important to both of us."

Greta Poole

Greta Poole has always been very supportive of her husband's job as township supervisor in Canton.

"I don't mind it because I know that's what he wants to do," she said. "That's what he was educated to do," she said.

Poole has a degree in political science. He was elected township supervisor in 1980.

After he retired from the Air Force in 1971, Poole chose Canton because his parents lived there, his wife said.

"He always said he wanted to come out here and home wound up from township board meetings.

"I don't think he came to bed for four hours after the last meeting," she said.

Mrs. Poole also stays active with her hobbies. She bowls, plays golf, sews and sings in the choir at Geneva Presbyterian Church. She has also served on the Plymouth Symphony Board. She taught piano years ago after majoring in music at Murray State University in Kentucky.

Lynne and Lois Hamilton

Karen Norton

In February 1964 Patrick Norton was elected to the Wayne City Council. During this time the current mayor spent many hours campaigning, attending meetings and traveling - all responsibilities and duties of a councilman.

And all during his political career his wife, Karen has been by his side.

"I try to support him in any way I can," said Karen. "I don't have any input in his job but I try to attend as many functions as I can."

Finding the time to attend such functions may be a problem, however. Karen assists in the daily operations of the four laundry cleaning stores that the Norton's own and is involved in several organizations.

She is currently chairman of Project Health, a health care organization and is also involved in Project Advance, the Wayne Ladies Literary Club and the work-study program for mentally impaired students.

She is also on the state of Michigan Special Education Curriculum Committee and chairman of the Wayne-Westland special education parent advisory committee.

"I am extremely busy," said Karen, who met her husband at St. Mary's High School in Wayne. "We have been working very hard on the Project Health program. We have been working on getting volunteers and staff members together and organizing the activities. It's been a lot of work but I enjoy it."

The Nortons, who have been married 27 years, have four children. Patrick, 25, graduated from Western Michigan University with a degree in geology and is currently a title researcher for Lawyers Title. Nancy, 24, is a University of Michigan graduate in economics and Brian, 22, is in his final year at the University of Michigan art school.

John, a student at Wayne Memorial High School, celebrated his 19th birthday on April 3.

Karen said her role as mayor's wife has not been as busy as it was at the start of her husband's career.

"In the beginning I did a lot of campaigning," she said. "But as the years go by it has become less and less. And I haven't been working for that long because when my children were growing up I was home at home."

It's obvious that the mayor's wife likes to keep as busy her famous husband.

Lois Hamilton

Lois Hamilton would rather be the "supporting" player than a political star.

As the wife of Van Buren Township Supervisor Lynne Hamilton, she has campaigned for her husband in the past and plans to do so again in the coming election. However, she sees her role "basically as supporting him and making things comfortable and pleasant for him at home."

The Hamiltons enjoy working on the yard of their Huron River Drive home, having dinner with friends on the weekend and "just relaxing at home."

Lois Hamilton also "does her thing" as well as helping her spouse to do his. She is vice president of the Belleville Area Republican Club, a precinct delegate and a substitute teacher for the Van Buren School District.

"I enjoy teaching - having contact with the children and the other teachers. It is really a world away from everyday problems," she said.

The supervisor's wife had taught school prior to having a family and later became involved in the family hardware business. When the business was sold, Lois felt she was "in limbo" and decided to return to teaching - a decision she is pleased to have made.

Lois is used to having township business "spill over" into their private lives, but does not consider it as an intrusion.

"Most of the township business is handled at Lynne's office. He has an excellent administrative secretary and staff, but we do get some phone calls at home - especially when there is a controversial issue at hand," she said. "When township business comes into our home, we just adjust to it."

Margaret Griffin

She married the man who sat on the stool next to her at the soda fountain. He made her the first lady of Westland.

Margaret Griffin married Charles "Trav" Griffin, an aspiring school teacher at the time, 28 years ago, and little did she know she would someday be the woman behind the politician.

Griffin said being the mayor's wife took some getting used to, but she is learning a little bit more every day.

The Westland mayor was a school teacher before he entered the political arena. He served on the school board and the city council before assuming his present office.

"If he intended to be a politician, he never told me about it," Griffin said.

Becoming the first lady of Westland did not change Griffin at all, she said. She did not join the jet set or talk on every cause in the city.

"Margaret is Margaret wherever she goes," Griffin said of herself.

Griffin is a secretary at Titus Elementary School. She said she used to be really active in community organizations until her husband decided to seek the job of mayor.

She said then time became too valuable.

"I don't think he's been home for dinner in two years," Griffin joked.

The couple said they try to set limits on the social engagements they attend. If they don't, Griffin said, they could be involved get-togethers every weekend.

The mayor said his wife is selective of which events she attends.

"When I need to be there, I am there," Griffin said. She said if she attended all the functions they were invited to the house would be a shambles and their three sons would forget who they are.

Mary Jo Patterson

A dynamic husband-wife duo is at the reins of the Romulus School Board. Technically, it is the husband who holds the title of "president," but it is his wife who adds constant support and assistance.

Mary Jo Patterson, 40, is the wife of Romulus School Board President Pat Patterson, 42. Being the wife of the president, she said, has allowed her to share her husband's job.

"I attend (school) board meetings whenever possible. He tries to include me and lets me know what's going on," said Patterson. "I go to many board meetings, but I go as a citizen and not really as a wife."

Although there are some topics on which the two have not agreed, Patterson said school issues are not the mainstay of their conversations.

"He knows both sides, and I only know one sometimes. So there are things we don't talk about," she said.

The Patterson family is very involved and close. Besides the mother, the family includes Pat, who also works as a mechanical technician at Sun Pipeline Co.; Todd, 19, a Henry Ford Community College student; and Thom, 15, a 10th-grader at Romulus Senior High School.

Mrs. Patterson was born in Alpena. Her husband was born and raised in Romulus. The two met at Alpena Community College and moved to Romulus after a job opening there.

"We take a weekend away sometimes. We really don't have a lot of time for me and I. We're very involved with our two boys," Patterson said.

The Patterson boys are also allowed to express their feelings about issues in the schools.

And even though Dad is the school board president, teacher favoritism is not an issue for Thom, his mother explained.

"We haven't noticed a lot of favoritism by teachers. When we go to see teachers, we say, 'We are here as parents.' Overall, teachers do not mind one way or the other."

In her spare time, Patterson likes to read, cross-stitch and watch television. Many activities, such as yard work or painting, are done with the aid of her husband.

"He's tried very hard not to leave everything for me to do. He helps out a lot."

Louise Davis

When you're the wife of an elected official, like it or not, you learn to become a politician.

"People call all times of the day and night," explained Louise Davis, wife of Inkster Mayor Joseph E. Davis Jr. "And he is seldom at home, so they would just go ahead and tell me what their problem was."

"Of course, I would try to explain that I didn't have any power to help them, but they would reply that I was his wife and he would listen to me."

Mrs. Davis has been listening to people for many years and conveying messages to her husband since he decided to get involved in politics. And when was that?

"As long as I can remember. And that's a pretty long time." Louise and Joseph Davis met in Illinois after World War II, while Davis was serving in the Air Force. They were married shortly afterward in Toledo, and the marriage has produced five children - Gregory, Alfred, Paul, Mark and Francis.

An Inkster product, the mayor was a natural for politics, according to his wife, "because he loves people."

"Joe is a down-to-earth person who will listen and try to help you solve your problem," Mrs. Davis said. "It was natural for him to turn to politics because he wants to help, and he gets along with people."

But she is also the first to admit that politics can put a strain on relationships, especially families.

"There are so many meetings you have to attend, and when you're trying to raise kids, it sometimes gets hectic," she said. "Anyone who is in elected office and has a family, especially kids, will understand what I am trying to say."

After serving on the city council for approximately 15 years, Davis decided last year to run for mayor. Was Mrs. Davis surprised by her husband's decision?

"No, not really. That, too, was also a natural thing for him to do, and I expected it was also natural for him to make the move. People had been urging him for quite some time to run (for the mayor's office) and, by the overwhelming vote he won by, the people obviously wanted a change."

Has anything changed since her husband has become the top elected official in the city of Inkster?

"No, not really. They still call here at all times of the day and night, and I still listen to their complaints. And pass them on to Joe."

This key lime is no lie

just desserts

sue willett

The warm spring days have been far too few, but they do bring to mind the wonderful desserts that are warmer weather favorites. While this tart (actually more of a pie) is perfect for warm days, it is also the perfect dessert for any spicy meal. Nothing is better after a great Mexican feast than this wonderful, cool lime treat.

Actually, this puts Key Lime Pie to shame, particularly in light of the horrible excuses many places serve today and pass off as the real Key Lime original.

The tart lime contrasts with the sweet buttery crust in this dessert and a dollop of whipped, sweetened cream adds the final touch. Briefly soaking the limes in boiling water removes any bitterness from the zest (the colored part of the skin), as well as wax or impurities, and releases more juice when the limes are squeezed. The tart can be prepared a day ahead and will bring raves from those lucky enough to taste this treat.

TANGY LIME TART

- 5 large juicy limes
- 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons granulated sugar (more for those with a sweet tooth)
- 2 whole eggs
- 4 egg yolks
- 2 sticks (8 ounces) unsalted butter, cut into teaspoons
- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
- Strips of lime zest for garnish, if desired
- Sweetened whipped cream

In a medium-sized, heatproof bowl, cover the limes with boiling water and let steep for two minutes. Drain the limes and pat dry. Let cool.

Finely grate enough zest from the limes to yield 4 teaspoons. Do not include any of the bitter white pith. Squeeze 2/3 cup of juice from the limes. In a heavy, medium-sized, nonaluminum saucepan, combine the zest, juice and granulated sugar. Stir to partially dissolve the sugar.

In a small bowl, lightly whisk the whole eggs and egg yolks to blend. Set the saucepan of lime juice over moderate heat and whisk in the eggs. Continue whisking until the mixture is very hot and slightly thickened, about five minutes. Do not let boil.

Remove the pan from the heat and quickly whisk in six tablespoons of the butter. Strain the lime curd into a small bowl. Cover the surface with a circle of waxed paper to prevent a skin from forming. Let cool to room temperature. (The curd can be prepared up to three days ahead and refrigerated.)

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. In a medium bowl, stir together the flour and confectioners' sugar. Cut or rub in the remaining one stick plus two Tablespoons unsalted butter until the dough can be squeezed into a ball. Flatten the dough into an 8-inch disk and transfer it to a 9-by-1 inch fluted tart pan with a removable bottom. Press the dough evenly over the bottom and up the sides of the pan. Prick the dough all over with a fork. Place the pan on a baking sheet and bake on the lower shelf of the oven for 30 to 35 minutes, or until the crust is golden brown. Transfer to a rack and let cool to room temperature.

Unmold the tart shell and place it on a serving platter. Spread the lime curd evenly over the tart shell, cover loosely with foil and refrigerate until chilled, about one hour.

Garnish the tart with twisted strips of lime zest and a few dollops of the whipped cream. Serve generous portions of whipped cream separately to individual tastes.

Enjoy.

Monica Dubiel (above) learned the secrets of perfect Polish cooking early in life - at her mother's insistence. But a husband and five sons later, the Westland resident is thankful for her vast knowledge of recipes and cooking skills. And of all the recipes, Dubiel will still go for the Polish treats in a minute. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

PREFERENCE FOR POLISH

Mom's advice has paid off for area cook

By BETH SUNDRLA
ANP Staff Writer

Monica Dubiel's mother insisted that she learn to cook, but she loves to do it anyway.

"I ended up with five sons, and they love to eat," Dubiel said.

Dubiel draws on her Polish background and prepares dishes her mother used to make.

Her mother stressed cooking and taught all four of her daughters to cook. "She figured someday we would get married and have to know how to cook."

She was right. Dubiel got married to a man of also of Polish descent and he requested dishes she had to work to master.

One of his favorites is potato pancakes. Dubiel was too proud to ask her mother-in-law for the recipe for fear she would think she couldn't cook.

So each time her mother-in-law sent potato pancakes to her she analyzed them. Finally, one day she made a batch herself. Her husband asked if they were his mother's. "I said 'no, I did it all on my own,'" she said.

All her years of persistence as a cook paid off. "I'm the only one of all my sisters who knows how to cook all my mother's recipes," she said.

Her advice to novice cooks is to keep trying. She also said young husbands should be supportive of their wives' cooking.

"I tell my sons, 'don't knock them down. If you make fun they won't try anymore,'" she said.

Dubiel makes many dishes ahead of time to feed her hungry sons when they drop by. She also has 11 grandchildren.

Dubiel learned many tricks of the cooking trade when she worked with Buda Catering.

While working as a cook with the catering service she learned other types of ethnic cooking. But Polish cooking is still her favorite type.

After living in Inkster for 32 years, the Dubiels moved to Westland. Dubiel said she used to make her own sauerkraut when she lived in Inkster. Now she uses canned sauerkraut because of her smaller kitchen.

But she still rinses it with water several times before cooking with it - a tip she learned while working with the catering service.

After years of cooking, Dubiel has some secrets to success. She recommended practicing to become a good cook. When making pierogies, Dubiel said she was many times a failure before she was successful.

"You've got to know how to close your dough," she said. To close the dough she crimps the edges with her fingers. "A lot of women use a fork, but I don't like to do that," she said.

She also recommends using a veal mixture in her cabbage rolls because beef alone makes them tougher.

When making Angel Wings, she recommends rolling the dough out very thin. "If you ever buy them from a bakery you'll find they are hard as a rock, but these are light and tender," she said.

Along with cooking Dubiel is an avid bingo player. She also sews and crochets. "I just love to be busy," she said.

She often keeps busy volunteering to cook the food for parties. She even cooked all the food for her son's wedding. She made the food at home and transported it to California on a plane.

Many people consider cooking a hard job, but not Dubiel. "For me it isn't hard. I think it almost has to be in you to enjoy cooking," she said.

PIEROGIES

- 3 eggs
- 3 cups flour
- 1/2 cup water
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon sour cream
- 1 teaspoon oil

Mound flour on kneading board and make a hole in the center. Drop eggs into hole and cut flour with knife. Add salt, sour cream, oil and water and knead until firm. Let sit for 10 minutes covered.

Divide dough in half and roll out. Cut circles with a biscuit cutter. Place a teaspoonful of filling to one side on each round of dough. Moisten the edge, fold over and purse edges together firmly. Be sure they are well sealed to prevent the filling from running out.

Drop in boiling salted water, cook gently for 3 to 5 minutes. Lift out of water carefully with perforated spoon.

Don't crowd or pile uncooked pierogies together - they will stick.

For fillings Dubiel uses potato cheese filling or sauerkraut

POTATO CHEESE FILLING

- 5 pounds Idaho potatoes
- 1/2 cup cheese
- 1 large onion, chopped fine
- Margarine
- Salt, pepper

Saute onion in margarine. Add to cooked potatoes and cheese. Add salt and pepper. Place in pierogies.

SAUERKRAUT FILLING

- 4 cups kraut rinsed and cooked
- 2 onions
- 1/2 mushroom
- Salt, pepper

Mix ingredients together and place in pierogies.

ANGEL WINGS

- 4 egg yolks
- 1 egg white
- 1/4 cup powdered sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 tablespoon rum or whisky
- 1 cup flour

Add salt to eggs and beat for five minutes. Add sugar and flavoring and beat until well blended. Fold in flour. Transfer to well-floured board. Knead until the dough does not stick to your hand.

Cut dough in half. Roll very thin and cut into strips about 4 inches long. Slit each piece in center and pull one end through slit. Fry in hot fat until lightly browned. Drain on absorbent paper towel and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

SAUERKRAUT SOUP

- 1 can sauerkraut
- 4 quarts of water
- 1 pound green or yellow split peas
- 1 pound salt pork
- Salt, pepper

Rinse sauerkraut four times and add the water and cook until tender - about two hours. While cooking, boil peas until soft and add to the sauerkraut.

Cut salt pork into tiny pieces. Add to kraut and cook for 15 minutes. Serve.

CABBAGE ROLLS

- Head of cabbage
- 1/2 pound ground veal
- 1/2 pound ground pork

- 1/2 pound ground beef
- 1/2 cup rice
- 2 eggs
- 1 onion, chopped fine
- 3 tablespoons butter
- salt, pepper

Remove core from whole head of cabbage with sharp knife.

Scald the cabbage in boiling water. Remove a few leaves at a time as they wilt. Cool before using.

Wash rice in cold water and stir into 2 quarts rapidly boiling, salted water. Boil 10 minutes and strain. Run cold water through the rice in strainer.

Saute onion in butter only until it becomes transparent.

Combine onion, meat, eggs, rice and seasonings and mix well. Spread each cabbage leaf with meat about 1/2 inch thick. Fold opposite sides and roll starting with one of the open ends.

Place green leaf of cabbage on bottom of a baking dish and place rows of cabbage rolls in the dish. Cover each row with a mixture of catsup and tomato juice.

To make mixture, mix two bottles of catsup to one can of tomato juice and add 1/2 can of water.

Cover the baking dish with foil and bake for two hours at 350 degrees.

MEAT BALLS

- 1 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 pound ground veal
- 1/2 pound ground pork
- 1/2 pound ground beef
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 small onion.
- 1 quart chicken soup

Pour milk over bread crumbs and let soak. Saute onion. Combine ground meats and seasonings, bread crumbs and milk and onion. Form small balls with mixture.

Brown in oil and butter. Place in pot and add chicken soup. Bake for one hour at 350 degrees.

Commission-free home sales debut

Belleville men start 'creative' marketing plan

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

A new concept in commission-free home marketing is being introduced in western Wayne County by three Belleville area men.

Robert Hall, Stan Mars and Landy W. Box have formed Creative Home Marketing, Inc., 10820 Belleville Road, to offer home marketing services for a set fee — $1,495 with between $200 and $450 payable at the time of listing.

One of their first tasks, the three men said, is to inform their clients about the "no commission" concept. People are accustomed to paying six or seven percent of the total selling price of their homes to the firm that sells them, they said. The idea of not paying a commission is a new idea for this area, although it has been successfully introduced in several other states, according to the real estate salesmen.

Hall said the primary difference in their plan and traditional real estate selling is that Creative Home Marketing charges a set fee instead of a commission. This method, he said, ensures that the firm will devote as much of its time, efforts and attention to the sale of a $40,000 home as they would to one that lists for $200,000.

The men indicated that the size of the initial payment — $200 to $450 — depends on the type of advertising package that the seller decides will best fit his or her individual needs.

In addition, Hall said, the firm uses videotaping and computerization to aid buyers in selecting the home of their choice. Hall noted that most people do not have time to travel from house to house to examine the features. Likewise, most sellers do not want to be tied down with appointments to show their homes to people who may not be serious buyers or qualified for financing.

"Prospective buyers can look at video tapes of the homes in their price range and then select which of them suits their needs. Then, they can make appointments to see the ones in which they have a special interest. This saves time and trouble for both the buyer and the seller," Hall said. "In addition, buyers are pre-qualified before they view a home."

Hall said that the marketing company is a "full service" operation which provides wooden signs, video tapes of the interior and exterior of the homes, kits for buyers and sellers and the screening of phone calls. They also offer consultations, prepare purchase agreements, arrange financing for qualified buyers, provide statements on activity of listings and advertising. Hall said the company serves as a liaison between the buyer and seller in negotiations and conducts closings in their office. Legal aid is available for an additional fee, he said.

The three men also operate an "apartment finder" service with no fee to the renter.

"We will have all of the information on the apartments on a video tape that will allow people to make one stop for a decision on a rental unit," Mars said. "In addition, we are planning to extend our service with a builder to show model homes in the same manner."

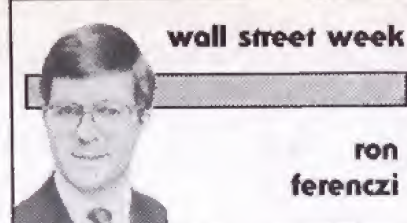

Creative Home Marketing is located in the Belleville Square Shopping Center, north of I-94. Additional information is available by calling 697-HOME.

Major stock movement will cause market rally

The task of trying to find significant data to justify or defend any market position is becoming much more difficult. Each set of numbers, fundamental or technical that indicates a positive outcome is possible, is offset by a set of statistics that indicate a negative outcome.

This lack of definition increases the need and desire for government securities. Short term, this relieves the Fed from any need to generate enthusiasm for government securities.

This week, the fear of inflation will push interest rates higher. Gold and silver prices will be little changed but seem to discount the short-term inflation fears.

wall street week

ron ferenczi

The lack of any major market trend this week will cause short-term traders to take profits, raise cash and move to short-term T bills. As the market continues to drift lower, some short-term traders will move back to the buy-side to open positions.

Intermediate- and long-term traders will spend the whole session closing out positions and moving to the sidelines.

Also this week, traders will be selling early in the session into any market strength. However, the heavy selling will be restricted to secondary issues. As the session continues, the list of declining issues will expand.

The Dow index will be improving by today, as increased money flows into a select group of large, capitalized issues, while the broad market continued to soften.

TRENDS: Watch for the secondary stocks to get weaker and the large, capitalized issues to get stronger. Keep a close eye on IBM and, especially, Westinghouse. I believe that good things will shortly surface on both of these stocks.

NOTE: New factory orders for durable goods fell 1.8 percent, and single-family home sales were up 20.3 percent in February. The trade deficit was at $12.44 billion in January, GNP increased 4.8 percent in the fourth quarter, and the dollar fell sharply during the past two weeks, taking with it falling bond prices and rising interest rates.

MARKET AVERAGES: Dow 1988.07; TRANS 863.05; UTIL 171.47; S&P 258.89; NYA 146.66; XVL 233.80; OEX 243.39; AMEX XMI 388.04.

Love of pets

Everyone loves a good pet — Wayne merchants and shoppers included. Putting the two together spelled a donation of about 1,000 pounds of dog and cat food to the Michigan Humane Society Westland shelter last week. The food drive was a part of the Wayne Merchants Association Moonlight Madness Sale March 25. In the sale, 42 merchants stayed open after hours — between 6 p.m. and midnight — to offer special sales to shoppers. During their shopping trip, customers could donate money in canisters located in participating stores. The 42 merchants had also pledged the donation of the animal food — about $500 worth — to the shelter. Humane Society shelter Manager Kathy Blauet (above, from left) gladly accepted the donation from Mitch Robertson, Merchants Association president, and Pat Sabourin, owner of the Country Mouse, in Wayne. The Moonlight Madness event began about 10 years ago, according to Robertson. It is one of several promotional events staged annually to unite local business owners and attract shoppers to Wayne stores. The success of the sale will be evaluated April 28, the next meeting of the group. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer
